SPRINGFIELD HIGH SCHOOL ★ SPRINGFIELD, OHIO

W

OUR REPORT TO SPRINGFIELD

This is our story . . . The story of Springfield High School in picture and in legend. We, the senior class, through the pages of our 1947 WILDCAT bring to you a report of the men and women who work with us and give to you an accounting of our activities under their leadership. We are grateful for the privileges of an education. This gratitude we can best express, we believe, by giving back to the city of Springfield after graduation the fruits of our training

Springfield Has Invested Nearly $7,000,000 In Us . . .

"The school is not the end but only the beginning of an education."

Administrator of this investment is Superintendent Homer L. Stevens, who chats here with sophomore Pat Burrell, senior Earline Merryweather, and junior Bill Barker. He is still as sensitive to and as keenly interested in the problems of boys and girls as he was when he dealt with them in the closer relationship of teacher and pupil.

and Is Now Spending Each Year

Charles L. Fox, as a teacher in Springfield High School, believed that an understanding between the administration and the student body could be a strong influence for progress. Now, as principal, he is happy in the knowledge that SHS has a well-organized student council.

The council, an organization of homeroom presidents and vice presidents, is divided into three groups: the Girls' Council, the Sophomore Boys' Council, and the Junior-Senior Boys' Council. Each group chooses leaders from its own organization to serve as members of the Student Executive Board. These groups in combination represent the voice of the classroom.

Pictured here we see the members of the Executive Board discussing with Mr. Fox a plan which may some day rank in importance with their other projects. The Boosters' Club, an organization for the fostering of better school spirit, Star and Chevron, a school service club, and the Merit System.

Board of Education

Mr. Urban Hidy, president of our Board of Education, is reading to Mr. Mark Snyder, Mr. Norman Allison, Mrs. Pearl Wilkerson, and Secretary Mildred Hartman a letter which may well be from Mr. Holmes Collins who was in Florida when this meeting of the Board was called.

Attendance Department

Mr. Chandler Sweet, Mrs. Dorothy Botkin, Miss Margaret Pettit, and Mrs. Carrie Vonderheide are members of the attendance department. Not only do they want to know why we are absent, but they also issue our working permits.

Secretaries

This group of secretaries make possible the smooth running of the Springfield school system. Mrs. Elaine Zimmick and Mrs. Olive Reeves (seated) are in the office of the superintendent. Miss Pauline Dillahunt and Miss Virgie Bright are in the office of the business manager, and Mrs. Mary Britton is with Miss Hartman in the Board office.

and Vision to Guide, to Teach, and to Care for Us.

There are occasions for all of us when we must share our joys and ask advice about our problems.

When such time comes, we seek out the counselors. From experience we know that we will be received sympathetically and that we will be given sincere, straightforward advice.

Miss Christine Hume, Mr. L. E. Sanders, and Mr. Boyd Young are anxious to help us plan our courses and develop our philosophies in such a way as to meet the work of tomorrow as capable workers and broad-minded, well-balanced citizens.

Miss Christine Hume

Benson Lewis, Robert Hawken, Benny Garrett, and John Wagner argue it out with Mr. Boyd Young and Mr. Lawrence E. Sanders.

THE GOLD AND THE BLUE

Hail to the colors that now float above us,
The Gold and the Blue that are waving on high!
Gold is the hue of the leaves in the forest
And grain in the meadow when autumn draws nigh;
Gold for the sunshine that loving streams o'er us
And stars as they ride thro' the clear evening sky.
Colors of heaven so bright and so glorious!
Colors that float o'er our dear Springfield High.

Our Future Is the Future of Springfield

If we consider the possibilities for her future development, Springfield is still an adolescent—STILL because the war halted her industries and changed her functions. She is now "growing like a weed," and to Springfield High School students she offers all her opportunities.

She was internationally known as a manufacturing center even in the early years of her development. Products from her factories were shipped to all foreign lands; and, because these lands have learned to depend on her products, they are directing their needs to her now.

Springfield is located only forty-five miles west of the state capital; twenty-five miles to her west is the great little government project, Wright Field. World War II raised Springfield from just another advancing city and made her one of the most active centers of war work in America. It is in this growing city that we are about to take our places. Her resources, her industries, and her careers are within our grasp if only we realize it. War halted her peacetime advancement for a while, but now she is functioning for us again.

In the pages which follow we want to show you how we are preparing to take our places in the work of tomorrow. As we pass from our school world to become a part of the future of Springfield, the slogan now is "FULL SPEED AHEAD."

Our Future In the Scientific and the Medical Discoveries are being made every day for the betterment of the human race. Penicillin, sulfa drugs, atomic energy — all of these amazing discoveries and many more are being constantly improved and applied so that the human race may live more contentedly and with less fear of disease.

In order to further this never-ceasing struggle of mankind against the enemies of nature, Springfield High School has realized the necessity of a curriculum containing such subjects as chemistry, physics, and biology to enable any students who desire to enter scientific fields the chance to acquire a foundation from which to work.

One should clearly understand the need of such a foundation on which to build the superstructure for any specialized field such as television, chemistry, medicine, or any form of scientific research. These fields are continually expanding, and the need for experienced technicians is forever increasing.

In the accompanying picture you see one of Springfield's well-known physicians, an alumnus of Springfield High School, discussing with Carolyn Whitmer and William Beasley, two Springfield High School students who expect to go into the field of medicine, treatment of deep-seated diseases through the use of X-ray. In young men and women like these two Springfield has established a source of technicians who will work for the betterment of the city and its inhabitants.

"Whatsoever house I enter, there will I go for the benefit of the sick
. . . " Hippocratic Oath.

Fields Unlimited . . .

Biology and Chemistry Are the Main Requisites

In this biology class may be a doctor of tomorrow's Springfield. Several of these girls may become nurses; but, whatever the future may hold, a knowledge of anatomy is a valuable preparation for tomorrow's wiser living, for knowledge of the truth dispels fear induced by ignorance.

The use of large, colored models clarifies the structure and operation of parts for biology classes.

Future Lawyers Learn from

Local Attorney the Fields Open to Them

When we leave behind us the world of classrooms and textbooks and take stock of what we have to offer our city, then will we indeed realize the value of what we have gained from those subjects we so casually referred to as Social Science when we were figuring up our majors and minors for graduation.

The privilege of an education places a responsibility upon us — a responsibility to participate in the civic affairs of our immediate community and to be interested in the welfare of the men and women who make up that community — a responsibility to understand and to cast our votes wisely in matters of state and national importance. And we begin our thinking on these matters in history class, in sociology, psychology, business law, and in economics.

Many of our graduates will find their vocations stemming directly from these very subjects. Social workers, politicians, government employees, lawyers, all must have an active interest in matters in this field.

We have chosen to represent this department in picture through the legal profession. All social sciences are necessary foundations for law. Sociology gives us the fundamentals of human relationship which are so greatly needed in this profession. We must know how laws came into being, why some laws are obeyed and others difficult to enforce. Through the study of economics we learn the basic principles that govern our business. From history we get the story of our development as a nation and a picture of our position in the family of nations.

Our three future lawyers pictured here can well learn from our alumnus in the legal profession that happiness in the job comes not alone from pouring over musty law books but from giving full measure to those matters that touch on the welfare of Springfield.

Willis Gee, Jack Sourwine, and Jerry Weikert discuss with Alumnus Bitner Browne a future in the legal profession.

Promotes Springfield

The forum group of Springfield High School is proud to cooperate with WIZE to help promote Springfield. This group presents to the public over the radio the pros and cons of present issues of national importance. The classes are made up of the students and their instructors Mr. Russell Larsen, Mr. Lewis W. Lewis, and Miss Ruth Ackerson. Several of the pupils are selected every other week to present the topic which will be most interesting to student and radio audiences. The boys and girls prepare their own scripts, which are proof-read by the teacher in charge of the program for that week. The success of each broadcast is highly dependent on the fine work of announcer Bob Terry and Engineer Victor Bushong.

History Gives Knowledge of Important World Events . . .

Keeping in touch with the news of the world is something of a chore for the busy high school student, for today's newspapers require more than casual scanning. Digests, such as Our Times, prepared for classroom use, give us a chance to argue, question and interpret exciting present-day events.

Typical of such classes is the one pictured below with Eileen Crist acting as student chairman of Mr. Franz Brickman's class. Through training afforded by such discussions we hope to develop into open-minded, well-informed citizens for tomorrow's Springfield.

Sociology, Law, and Economics Are Offered for

Sociology is defined as the science of the constitution and the development of society. In this class, as the chart indicates, Mr. Russell Larsen and his class have been discussing the changing problems of our own country from the trials of the early colonists to the problems confronting us as a large and complex nation today. In this class we have an opportunity to discuss perplexing problems of home and family relations, of school, of church, and of state. Such discussions are excellent preparation for facing the problems of life.

Future Social Workers and Government Employees

"History repeats itself." If we are to avoid the mistakes of the past, if we are to interpret the events of the present, if we are to take our places intelligently in the world of the future, we must take a serious interest in history, sociology, and economics. True, these subjects are background for careers in social work, law, and government; but they are background for any one who wants to be intelligently aware of what is going on in the world about him. Because modern inventions have shortened the distances between nations both for travel and for communication, it will be more and more necessary as time goes on that we understand these people with whom we must live in the world's family of nations.

Richard Carnes, Carolyn Bruce, Thelma Johnson, Eugene Layman, Darlene Lyons, Becky Morgan, and Mr. Larsen are interested listeners to the discussion between Bill Schultz and Darlene Haynes.

We Can Be Adequately

Mr. Herman Spurlin discusses merchandising problems with Nova Maloy, Donna Williams, Jeanne Crotzer, and Patti Manful, of the department in Distributive Education.

Prepared for a Career In the Business World

It is an obvious truth that the commercial students of today will be the business men and women of the near future. Those boys and girls who plan eventually to take their places in the world of business find an opportunity at Springfield High School to prepare themselves for many types of work.

A course in Distributive Education is the most recent addition to the classes in our commercial department. Realizing that the pleasant relationship between the customer and the store depends on the young men and women who sell across the counter, the course is intended to train courteous, skilled salesmen. Instruction is given in salesmanship and business speech.

The pupils enrolled attend classes all morning and get practical experience in the downtown stores in the afternoon. In this way they can become more and more capable of venturing into the business world on a sound and intelligent basis, and the public benefits through being served intelligently by salesmen who have been taught to take pride in a job well done and to feel the importance of that job.

Commercial Department Offers Various Courses

What kind of work would we like to do? typist? bookkeeper? secretary? Springfield High has the proper course to train us for the work we want. Practical courses available to us are bookkeeping, typewriting, shorthand, and office practice. Mr. Walsh has been teaching a class in the fundamentals of income tax figuring this year. This is a newly developed class for the purpose of instructing the student on the computing of income tax in order that he may sometime be of help to his employer.

A three year vocational course is designed for those who want specialized training or who plan to do secretarial work. For those who want general training in stenography, two years of commercial work may be included in a general academic program. You can see that Springfield High School realizes its obligation to Springfield and is striving to give her well-trained students capable of furnishing the business offices of the city with efficient workers.

Members of Class Meet Real Business Problems

This is a picture of one of our classes in office practice. These girls are not working imaginary problems, but are actually conducting business for the school. Through their hands pass all the accounts for The Herald, The Mentor, THE WILDCAT, and the football programs. Department heads turn over to them all financial transactions in connection with orders for workbooks, magazines, and news sheets. They do all the mimeographing for the school. They handle the accounts in connection with extra work and scouting for the athletic department. This is not just a class; this is a young business conducted by such capable personnel as (l. to r.) Jeannine Smith, Elberta Schreiber, Donna Reedy; Pat Tieman, Mary Tolle, Wanda Woodell, Pat Von Strohe; Artis Hitt, Elaine Pettit, Laura Amato, Carolyn Elliott, Phyllis Baker; Ruth Johnson, Audrey McGill and Donna Wilson (at the mimeograph). Experience in such a practical class should certainly be excellent preparation for efficiency in the business offices of Springfield.

Some Students Choose

Careers in Engineering or Some Phase of Mechanics

Competent and alert teachers of the Trades and Industrial departments take great delight in preparing the high school boys for jobs in the factories in or around Springfield. Carefully planned courses are mapped out to include the most common phases of industry requiring skill and perfection. The boys enrolled in the Vocational Trade department learn early, while their minds are young and active, the fine points of craftsmanship. Employment awaits Springfield High students because Springfield industry knows from experience that these boys are well trained by instruction, demonstration, and practical application of the basic fundamentals of workmanship.

Machine shop, foundry, sheet metal shop, drafting room, and pattern shop are fully equipped classrooms, containing the best machines and equipment available. Drafting, blueprint reading, math and science prepare the boys to handle their positions intelligently by giving them an excellent background. Training in our shops leads directly to work immediately after graduation.

Not only have the students made their contacts while in the four weeks' co-op period of working, but they leave school capable of holding good jobs which, without school training, would take months of full time practice to learn to fill with any degree of fitness. We are proud of our state-wide reputation for an outstanding Vocational-Trade plan of education. Of the fifty-two Ohio Schools which have Trade-Industrial departments Springfield High School ranks among the first five.

Alumnus Marvin Ginaven explains to Bernard Carmosino, Jerry Fagan, and Dave Tittle, the marvels of the famous "Peanut Machine."

Bob Shaffer, Frank McKenzie, and Elbert Schreiber give a demonstration on the use of the slide rule, using the teacher's model. George Hennesy, Ralph Hough, David Dunbar; Charles Capper, Merrill Freed, Roger Swadner, Bob Bates, and Dick Petticrew follow on their own rules.

Accuracy In Mathematics Is Essential

Too many pupils look upon mathematics as a grind or as mere mental gymnastics; but when one sees the practical application of the problems he works to the job for which he is preparing, mathematics becomes a fascinating subject. It is from this angle that the teachers at Springfield High try to present their subject.

College authorities tell us that students of science fail more frequently because of weakness in mathematics than for any other reason. During World War II boys from the armed forces were quick to report to their friends at home the advantages of thorough preparation in geometry, algebra, and trigonometry. Such word sent pupils scurrying into both advanced courses and remedial work.

During the first semester of this year all senior students were given the Ohio State Screening Test in Mathematics and those who were found not to be up to standard were required to take remedial work in the particular type of math suited to his course.

Classes Are Arranged to Fill All Needs

Boys in the Trades and Industrial departments are given instruction in mathematics in connection with the particular course which they elect to take; but for those boys and girls who are planning on going into college, the curriculum offers classes in algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. Commercial students find classes available in commercial arithmetic. Whatever the pupil's particular need in the field of mathematics, Springfield High School has a class for him.

Springfield High Affords Much Actual Experience

Boys choosing a course in Industrial Education find actual experience in machine shop, pattern making, drafting, foundry, and sheet metal work. In the same department boys may choose a course in the field of Industrial Arts. The difference in these two courses is not in subject matter but in the emphasis placed upon the subject matter. The boys who have chosen one of the five above mentioned courses specialize in that course for three years. Those who haven't decided on their life work take the course in Industrial Arts in order to gain experience in all five fields. These studies prepare the student to enter a trade upon graduation, or, as in some cases, the credits may be applied to college entrance requirements.

To staff this department, the school has chosen well-trained, experienced teachers. They, too, are always learning. During vacation periods they gain practical training in the different shops in Springfield.

Not only are the students prepared to enter industry, but they are also taught such fundamentals as English, history, math, and science. They leave high school with a well-rounded education so that they face life well prepared.

Some of Us Dream of a Future in Journalism . . .

One of man's strongest urges is to tell a story, either to describe something he saw, to convince his friends to his point of view, or to reveal what is in his heart. In any group one of your friends is bound to confide that he expects to become a journalist — or an author. So it is at Springfield High School. Many of us dream of careers in the field of literature, but all of us do not prepare ourselves in the same way. Some of us take as many English classes as we can and do as much outside reading as time permits in order to develop a background; others look forward impatiently to courses in journalism and an opportunity to serve on the staff of one of our four student-written publications. The Herald, our bi-monthly newspaper edited by the journalism classes, gives an account of activities, sports, and general news about the school. A School News class writes a column for the Springfield Sun every other Friday, reporting the activities of the students to Springfield. The Mentor, our literary publication, offers an opportunity for the more talented members of our student body to express themselves in prose and verse. THE WILDCAT yearbook, which is now reporting to you of life at SHS during the school year of 1946-'47, is edited by a yearbook class. In the following pages we show you examples of the way in which we gain a broad cultural background and good practical experience for the time when school days are over.

Our work may fall far afield from the dreams of our school days, but the effort we have put on the various phases of English and literature will pay off in the years to come in friends with mutual interests in reading, and in our own resources for leisure time.

Alumnus Lawrence Laybourne of the Washington office of LIFE and TIME magazines discusses with Joan Little and Grafton Trout preparation for careers in the field of journalism.

We All Want a Good Cultural Background

for It Is the First Essential for Happy Living

The appreciation of good literature, the ability to think logically and to express our thoughts in clear correct sentences, whether spoken or written, these are the aims of the English department. Although we may not realize how important our English classes are while we are in school, we shall be aware of the value of our training when we go into the business world immediately after graduation; for much of our success, business or social, depends on our ability to meet people with perfect confidence in ourselves. Those of us who plan to continue our education realize that our college classes are conducted on the assumption that we have a strong foundation in the ability to read, to think logically, and to express ourselves clearly. Neither must we overlook the enjoyment which we will have from reading and writing purely for our own entertainment; for, in addition to success in the field of our chosen vocation, we must be able to fill in our leisure time in order to achieve Happy Living.

Theatrical Experience and Library Research

Carl Rice, Joe Shepherd, Mahala Weaver, Thelma Ballentine, Bill Leuby, and Kay Faulkner prepare a set for the production of "Stray Cats" while Marjorie Pierson and Nancy Pendleton consider customs for the play.

The stage is one of the few places where each of us with an urge for self-expression can put forth his own personality. Work with the stage crew, one of the least appreciated and least rewarded groups of the dramatic department, gives a lot of us an opportunity to show our creative genius in designing and painting sets. This group is also responsible for the make-up and the costuming in all dramatic productions. They are the behind-the-scenes workers who are so essential in making the play and the work of the actors a success. The play itself provides a chance for some of us to exhibit our acting and producing talents. Our experience in making public appearances develops poise and gives us confidence to appear before groups of people, and thus trains us to become good leaders.

Aid in the Development of Self-Reliance

The library permits us to delve more fully into various phases of our class work. Here are the books that contain a wealth of knowledge to be acquired by any student. Book reports, reference work, memory selections, too often regarded as unnecessary labor, are in reality a means by which we train our minds to choose the best in the field of literature. We go to the library, too, just to browse around and choose books for our leisure reading. There is not one of us who does not make good use of the library at some time or another. We owe grateful appreciation to our librarian, Miss Bess Noble, for her tireless work in helping the students find books suited to their tastes, and for her help in getting out materials for class references.

"Why study a dead language!" Every student of Latin has said that with disgust, particularly when the constructions are difficult, the assignment is long, and the gang has plans for fun. However, we all realize, in calmer moments, that a good background in this language adds meaning to our own English. For those of us who expect to study languages later, a little hard work on Latin will make French, Spanish, or Italian easier; for Latin is the ancestor of all Romance languages. Though we may continue the study of Latin no farther than our high school classes, our school reading brings us constantly in contact with characters and events that have become classic in the world of art, music, and literature.

Their Customs Through Our Study of Languages

No longer do we study languages on the chance that some day we may travel nor because a foreign phrase here and there adds a bit of culture to our conversation. Modern advancement in transportation and communication has brought all countries so close together that an understanding of the peoples of the world and of their cultures is necessary to the good citizen of tomorrow. In the teaching of French, Spanish, and German, the foreign language teachers of Springfield High School stress the stories of the people and of their ways of life as equally important as the language itself.

The study of languages can be a practical thing, too; for as communication increases among the neighbors of the world, so business increases and the demand goes out for interpreters. Several of our language students have gone into such positions, and others are preparing to do the same thing.

Many of Us Girls

Plan for an Important Career in Homemaking

It has long been an erroneous idea that women are naturally endowed with homemaking abilities, but actual practice does not bear out this theory. Our homemaking division is a very important part of the school system. All girls, whether they intend to follow a career or become homemakers, live in houses; and in most cases they are responsible for at least part of the care of that house. Home economics is a way by which the skill to furnish a house, the economics to run it, and the ability to feed and clothe the people in it are acquired.

With that in view, the program which is planned for our classes includes training in foods and nutrition, textiles and clothing, house planning and furnishing, home management, child care and development, health, family and other social relationships. In addition to good housekeeping, homemaking includes spiritual and cultural development, general well-being, and happiness for all members of the family. Helping students become better homemakers and citizens, developing desirable ideals and standards of homemaking will improve the quality of living in the home and in the community.

Pictured here is Mrs. Wilfred Bullock, a Springfield High School alumna, entertaining seniors Allan Rankin, Suzanne Rolfes, George Getz, and Joanne Sallee at a tea in her home. Many girls, as homemakers, will find themselves putting into practice the training in social graces that they first learned in classes in Home Economics.

The beauty of the house is order;
The blessing of the house is contentment;
The glory of the house is hospitality;
The crown of the house is godliness.

The Graduating Class of 1947

Having reported to you on the organization of our school and the influences under which we have spent three years of training, we would like you to know the boys and girls who are about to take their places in the economic life of Springfield. First we present the four whom we have chosen to represent us as a class: Dick Algeo, president; Tom Walsh, vice president; Cynthia Meredith, secretary; and Suzanne Rolfes, treasurer.

We believe that as a class we have achieved some worthwhile honors for our school. One of our boys placed third in the United States in oratorical declamation; one placed first in the county in the Ohio General Scholarship Test for Seniors. One of our girls was awarded the Wellesley Regional Scholarship, one of eight that Wellesley makes available to the nation. We claimed a Kenyon scholarship, a Miami scholarship, and the Ohio Music Association scholarship, all four-year awards.

Includes Large Group of War Veterans

We are a large class. In addition to the four hundred and forty-seven members whose activities are recorded in the following pages Beverly Baisch, Herman Burrow, Anne Davis, John L. Evans, John Lestan, Robert Meade, James Miller, Luther Roberds, James Shields, Elwood Steiner, Virginia Walls, and George Zirkle were camera shy. Then, we are particularly proud to have the honor of including in our membership the following one hundred and twenty-one graduating veterans of World War II.

Now that we are graduating from high school, we have our first real opportunity to prove to our parents and our other patrons just how we can make ourselves worthy of all that they have given of themselves to give us every benefit of education. We appreciate everything anyone has done. Our thank-you's may not be in script over our signatures, but our service and loyalty to Springfield in the future will show our gratitude. We have the will to work and learn, and whatever our station in life is to be, we will make that a most respected position.

We will respect others for their character and responsibility, not for their earthly possessions. If any of us have special talents, we want to use them for the furthering of mankind. All in all, our aim is to repay with the use of our knowledge all that we owe you, Citizens of Springfield. It is you who have given to us for twelve years; now we ask you to have faith in our ability to go out into business, trades, and professions and give back to the city the fruits of the training made possible by you.

The King Is Dead; God Save the King!

That's the cry when England's monarch dies and is quickly succeeded by the next in line. The seniors are gone. Now WE take up the story. Who are WE? the new juniors and seniors! Only yesterday we were sophomores and juniors, but on June 5, 1947, we came into our own. Now WE are ready frown on the 1948 crop of sophomorr, and write our own yearbook. WE'll to publish the Herald, edit the Mentoes when they dash up the center stairs and down the ends. It will be OUR turn to laugh at the innocents who stumble over doorstops. WE'll win the games, run the Boosters' Club, French Club, Dramatic Club, Hi-Y, Student Council, and be elected to the National Honor Society. Then some day WE'll graduate and on will come the next succession of the steady stream of young America taking advantage (some reluctantly) of the greatest opportunity for education any country in the world has to offer. Our interests and our activities, aside from actual classroom work, are set forth in the rest of this book. We look forward expectantly to our part in carrying forward to even greater achievement the activities of SHS.

School Life

"I pledge myself to uphold the high purpose of this society..."

Scholarship, Character, Leadership, Service

The most coveted honor that Springfield High School can bestow is membership in the National Honor Society. It isn't recognition of scholastic ability alone that determines membership, although scholarship is very important, but that combination of scholarship, service to the school, and good citizenship which marks the well-balanced young man and young woman. The candidates are received into membership in an inspiring initiation service presented before members of the student body; and the pledge " . . . to uphold the high purpose of this society to which I have been elected, striving every way by word and deed to make its ideals the ideals of my school" inspires many an underclassman to double his efforts in order to be a part of this service in his senior year.

Girls' Council

Veda Rush, Rachael Mellinger, Mahala Weaver, Virginia Johnson, Jan Howdeshelt, Catherine Crabill, and Maralyn Anderson represent the Girls' Council whose principal project is the maintenance of an annual scholarship financed largely by their sale of pencils.

Junior-Senior Boys' Council

Thor Ronemus, Carl Parrill, Richard Osborne, Tom Walsh, Harold Dinges, and Joseph Jordan are officers of the older council group. This year they have given their time and effort to conducting a survey to determine the possibility of placing more drinking fountains. Plumbing difficulties have caused them their greatest worries.

Douglas Stewart, Gene Schaefer, Clive Rush, Jerry Rositto, Eugene Snarr, and James Hamilton represent the younger council, whose work usually is to help acquaint their divisions with school routine. This year they spent considerable time on committees in cooperation with the Junior-Senior Council on the drinking fountain project.

Busily engaged in getting the Herald ready to go to press are Darlyne Haynes, Donna Walthall, Rosella Lister, Eileen Crist, Louie Dale Kelley, Nancy Pendleton, Laurette Brandt, Nancy Beck, Patty Elliott, Thelma Strong, and Pat Sikes.

The Herald- The Students' Newspaper

Earlier in this book we said that many pupils with a longing for a career in journalism look forward impatiently to the time when they can enroll in the classes that are responsible for Springfield High School's four student-written publications. One of these publications is The Herald, school newspaper published by the Journalism II class, but with worthwhile contributions from Journalism I. Membership in these classes is open to juniors and seniors. The work is not a substitute for English but must be taken in addition to the regular schedule. The first semester's work presents the fundamentals of journalistic writing and gives the class a chance to practice on those items which are of special interest to the school. When the work of the beginners merits recognition, it is published in the current edition of The Herald. The Herald forecasts and reviews all important school events, class activities, assemblies, club meetings, plays, and sports, with just enough high school foolishness to show that we're still kids. The staff is composed of the four page-editors, advertising manager, circulation manager, reporters and art staff. The staff gather their news, write it up, proof read the galley copy, lay out the pages, sell their own advertising, and sell their own papers. This year the Herald received a First Honor rating from NSPA.

The Wildcat

Our Yearbook

A permanent record of a year at Springfield High School . . . that is what the yearbook gives you. When the book is first published, it is a source of enjoyment because we can check on ourselves and our friends at work. We like to look again at the things we enjoyed doing. Years from now when we have been long away from the classroom, we'll enjoy these pages because of the memories they recall. The book, too, is good publicity; our fathers and mothers and neighbors see what we have been doing with our days in school, and they are proud of the school when they find the report good.

The Wildcat is published by a yearbook class. Members must be seniors with excellent scholastic records. We do not divide our work with an editor-in-chief and specialized departments, although that way may be more in keeping with journalistic procedure, but all of us work harmoniously together planning picture schedules, identifying classes, writing and selling ads, counting characters for headlines, and—woe is me—writing copy to space. Our way must be satisfactory, for we have for the last four years received All-American and Medalist ratings from NSPA and CSPA.

The Mentor

The Mentor is officially the publication of the Creative Writing class, originally a means of presenting to the student body the good work of this class. During the last five years, however, the pages of the Mentor have been open to general student contribution and the emphasis in the early part of Creative Writing is on criticism in order to prepare the class to edit the magazine. The cover and the illustrations are the work of the art classes. The Mentor rates First Honors in NSPA.

School News

Springfield High School contributes every other Friday, alternating with Catholic Central, a column of school news in the Springfield News and in the Morning Sun. These columns are the particular responsibility of the School News class. The class is a splendid means of emphasizing the best in journalistic writing and of keeping constantly before the public the activities of the school.

The Print Shop

From the third floor office of The Wildcat and The Mentor, from the second floor offices of SHS and of The Herald, from the first floor offices of the Superintendent of Schools and of the Board of Education, all paths lead to a spot tucked away in the corner of the basement. Here a group of boys are learning to be printers and at the same time turning out thousands of dollars worth of registers, forms, corridor permits, cards, tickets, letter head paper, Mentors, Heralds, and Wildcats for Springfield schools.

Ronald Clark, Kenneth Bishop, and Stuart Smith at the stone. Here pages are laid out in frames ready for presses.

Norman Slye, Howard Craig; Jack Shoaf, Mr. Homer LeFevre, and Paul Maute inspect the work off the big press. It is on this press that The Herald, The Mentor, and The Wildcat are printed.

Rose Lowrie, Minton Brees, Merrill Freed, Loraine Lay, Mahala Weaver, John Babalis, and Jean Wright proclaim the merits of NFL.

National Forensic League

For the Springfield chapter of NFL this has been a banner year. As a team we scored more individual points than any other school in the Southwest District and were the only school to send a contestant to the National meet at St. Louis. At Columbus Central we took first (Ronald Mezger), second, and third places in humorous declamation, a first place in oratorical (Susan Krapp), and a first place in dramatic declamation (Minton Brees). In the district meet at Bluffton, Minton Brees won firsts in original oratory and in oratorical declamation. Here Ronald Mezger again won first in humorous declamation, and our team added the second place in original oratory and third in both extemporaneous speaking and in dramatic declamation.

The debate team tied for third at Bluffton, but at the meeting of the Ohio State Speech League at Dayton Fairmont they were ranked second. Here we claimed the third place in dramatic and in humorous declamation; Susan Krapp placed first in original oratory and second in declamation. Minton Brees reversed his record with a second in original oratory and the first place in oratorical declamation that won him the right to participate in the national competition where he placed third.

Minton Brees, winner of Third National Honors in Oratorical Declamation, returns from the St. Louis meet with his coach, Mr. Donavan Pearson.

STAGE AND PLATFORM . . .

Carl Rice, Mahala Weaver, Thelma Ballentine, Joseph Shepherd, Bill Leuby, Nancy Pendleton, Kay Faulkner, and Margie Pearson plan a set.

Gold and Blue Thespians broadcast a one act play each week from Springfield station, WIZE.

National Thespian

National Thespian played host, this spring, to the one act play contest for A and B schools in the Southwest District. Our entry, "Sauce for the Goslings," won first place at this meet and was named one of five schools to enter the state finals at Columbus. Here the play received a fourth place rating, and Lore Benjamin and Susan Krapp tied for the position of outstanding female actress. We are particularly proud of having been asked to install the new chapter of NTS at the Urbana High School.

Dramatic Club

The Dramatic Club, another organization of the Speech department, is a most important factor in the successful production of any play. Its members double for actors and for stage crew. This year they have put much of their time on the fascinating study of designing stage settings. Intriguing examples of their work with curtains that operate, windows and doors that open, and lights that can be turned on and off have been on exhibition in the library during the second semester.

Christmas Program Given Before Holidays

A Christmas Story

Cast—

The Tramp George Glenn
Aunt Charity Loraine Lay
Peter Steele Jack Cowan
Prudence Steele Susan Krapp

Time — The night before Christmas.

Place — The home of Peter Steele.

"A Christmas Story" was enacted during the opening period assemblies just before the holiday vacation. It tells the story of Prudence Steele, who on the night before Christmas, alone with her aunt, has just turned a crippled beggar from the door. Just a little while later another tramp enters the Steele home without even knocking at the door. Prudence, very much surprised and angry, tries to get rid of this very stubborn tramp, but she is not at all successful. He is a very odd person, seemingly wise and very persistent. To Prudence and her husband Peter he gives advice and reprimands them for their evil ways, all of which he seems to know about. The identity of this strange tramp, who seems to know everything, forms the element of suspense for the entire play.

STAGE AND PLATFORM . . .

Smilin' Thru

This is the story of the tragic shooting of a young bride by her rejected suitor. Fifty years after her death a girl and a boy of these families fall in love. The story tells how the spirit of the slain girl comes "Smilin' Thru" to help the young people. The cast as pictured are Pat Trinkle, Richard Shank, Susan Krapp, Merrill Freed, Jeanne Wright, Ronald Mezger, Lore Benjamin, Joe Smith, Janice Howdeshelt, George Glenn, John Robinson, Nancy Pendleton, and Loraine Lay.

Double Exposure

The setting of the Junior Class Play is laid in a very select hospital. The owner is on vacation but his nephew, who is to fall heir to a fortune when he is thirty-five but who is now out of funds, has invited the Old Mill Theater Group to move in with him. The cast include Richard Russell, Pat Sikes, Joe Smith, Jeanne Wright, Joe Shepherd, Marilyn Everhart, Dick Shank, Fred McKaig, Janice Howdeshelt, Iris Hess, Jo-Ann Borgerding, Rachel Mellinger, and Lucylinn Petty.

Under the Big Top

One of the most extravagant musical productions ever witnessed on our high school stage was the 1946 biennial spring show. Under canvas, from which the entertainment took its name, the orchestra, band, choir, and dramatic departments joined forces to produce a spectacle as gay and exciting and as packed with talent as any big top performance. Under the guidance of Ringmaster Jim Smith the acts moved in smooth procession before our wondering eyes . . . animals from Jumbo, the elephant, to Tiny, the giraffe . . . the pony ballet featuring Patty Dunn and Jeanne Wright . . . vocal solos by Andy Simms, Jim Smith, Elna Dillahunt . . . the circus band, the marimba solo by Marjorie Smith, Ozzie Osborne at the piano, the faculty quartet, and then the Calliope! Certainly there never was such a calliope, nor one that made such music! To complete the circus atmosphere peanuts, popcorn, and cotton candy were sold to the audience in regular circus style.

This ensemble from the spring show, Under the Big Top, includes the circus band, the choir, the pony ballet, specialty numbers, an unusual assortment of really funny clowns, and the hit of the evening, the calliope. Surely such a galaxy of talent was never before assembled before an admiring audience at SHS.

When the circus animals get loose and join the dancers, the result is really side-splitting.

MUSIC . . .

We Thrill to Stirring Music . . .

For years the drum majors, in impressive looking uniforms and with whirling batons have marched at the head of a band. For too long they held the field alone; but, as was to be expected, the girls could imagine themselves in that position, and now the drum major has to share his honors with the majorettes. These leaders, smart-stepping in parade or on the athletic field, give the spectators a thrill of admiration as the band passes in review.

Ready for Parade

Just a turn and you can imagine Drum Major William McCaughey, Majorettes Joyce Foster, Bonnie Siefert, Anita Goodfellow, and Pearl Miller ready to march down the steps and lead the band out in parade.

by the Band

The band marches down the street, and we thrill to its stirring music without a thought of the effort that makes a fine band. Take our own unit, for instance. Every day eighth period they spend in learning new music and in practicing the old, for a band must have a large repertoire of both classical and popular music. After rehearsals, the group goes outside for marching practice, for a band is often called on for those occasions that require marching. Each of our musical organizations is associated in our minds with special events. We think of the band in connection with Convocation. Not only do they furnish music and accompaniment for the occasion, but they also lead the march of the student body from Evans Stadium back to the high school. Athletic events and the band are synonymous not only for their stirring music during the games but also for their spectacular performances between halves. Their annual concert is an SHS musical event. In addition to this concert they give special assembly performances, and they are called on for community functions. The seventy-five members of our Gold and Blue Band are—

Special Awards Reflect Credit On . . .

The Springfield High School orchestra is so closely associated with all high school activities that it was with special delight that we received the news of their first successful competitive audition since the war.

At the instrumental audition-festival held on the Wittenberg College campus this spring, the SHS orchestra took fifteen first ratings. Twelve entries were sent to the Ohio State University auditions, and of these twelve eight won top rating in the state finals for instrumental soloists and ensembles. One of the members, Jack Alexander, received a four-year scholarship to Ohio State University.

The orchestra is a busy group. Every assembly finds them in the pit playing not only for entrance and exit but usually furnishing an extra solo in addition. They give special assembly programs, furnish the music for all dramatic performances, and each spring give a special concert of their own. This year they gave concerts at two of the junior high schools, Snyder Park and Hayward, and made a trip to play for the high schools at Troy, Piqua, and Dayton Kaiser.

Advanced Choir Merits Recognition

To the boys and girls who are interested in vocal music, Springfield High School offers unlimited opportunities for participation. There is a choral organization for you no matter how much or how little time your schedule leaves for music. Chorus classes meet each Friday and are sufficient in number to coincide with any Friday study schedule. Chorus classes are always well filled.

The Girls' Glee Club is another popular group; and the B Choir, which meets three days a week, alternates with a music appreciation class. The B Choir serves not only as a unit in itself but also as preliminary training for the A Choir. Any sophomore may try out for a position in this organization. If his voice is adequate and he shows an interest in his work, he is chosen to fill any vacancy in the advanced group caused by withdrawal or by graduation.

The A Choir meets every day. They present two concerts a year, and the patrons of Springfield High School look forward to these performances as real musical treats. This year marked the return for the first time since the war of entrance into competitive auditions. At a spring audition held at the Wittenberg Field House, our A Choir was given a rating of Superior. This year two tours were planned, one that covered the junior high schools of Springfield and another that presented performances before the high schools of several of our neighboring cities.

Richard Marcinko, Joanne Sallee, Myrlene Hagle, Sue Rolfes, Margaret Stanforth, Nancy Lesh, Richard Osborne, Ronald Mezger, and Maralyn Anderson reproduce for French Club a street scene about which they had studied earlier in class.

La Cercle Francaise

Le Cercle Francaise affords its members ample opportunity to increase their knowledge of France, its history, its language, and the customs of the people. The club opened a very successful year with a weiner roast at Snyder Park. The regular monthly meetings, conducted entirely in French, have included original skits, talks on France, stories of its principal cities, the singing of French songs, and the playing of word games in French.

In the fall the members sold programs at the football games. The money made was used to buy books, pictures, victrola records made by the army for the instruction of French, and all those other things that make for efficiency in language study. Much of the money from the treasury was used for completing the boxes of food and clothing which were sent regularly to the family of a French girl of high school age whom they "adopted." For their fine work on this project they were named the most outstanding club at SHS for 1947.

Earline Merryweather, Barbara Botsford, John Robinson, Joe Jordan, Richard Petticrew, Rita Rae Jacobs, Carol Jenkinson, Bill Leuby, Muriel Paschal, Ann Ritter, George Glenn, and Merrie Lou Parkinson portray a Spanish restaurant scene.

The Spanish Club

Like other language clubs the Spanish Club endeavors to bring to its members a more intimate understanding of the Spanish-speaking people of the world. The program is planned with a view to acquainting students with greater information about the history, the literature, and the culture of the people. Members of the club participate in the program of giving reports on the life and customs of the Spanish people and on the geography of their country. The members enjoy singing Spanish songs and playing Spanish games. Frequently guest speakers are invited to relate their own personal experiences in traveling through various Latin-American nations. These interesting talks together with motion pictures provide an opportunity for the students to increase their knowledge and understanding of Spanish-American life and civilization.

The reproduction of scenes such as the one pictured above give the students a more intimate "feel" of the atmosphere of the country and the temperament of the people; and the use of the language under the more informal activities of club meeting makes for greater fluency in speech.

Standing over the sleeping Snow White, Mary Ellen Ramsey, are Prince Charming Minton Brees and the seven dwarfs, Donald Neff, Jack Ruggles, Wayne Pendleton, Robert Binnig, Karl Kellison, Ronald Fritts, and Frank McKenzie.

German Club Re-enacts Snow White

The purposes of the German Club are to offer recreation, to provide the opportunity for all German students to become acquainted, and to increase knowledge of the land, the people, their literature, and their music. The study of German legends led to the production of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." This version has been so popular that it has been repeated several times.

Several letters from Germany have been brought to the club for translation. In one case the translation resulted in the sending of food, clothing, and other necessary articles to a needy family of five in Germany. Letters have also been received from boys and girls who wish to correspond with American students. At the present time several members are writing to exchange stories of school life and are deriving much benefit from this language practice.

James Harkins, Bertha Jobes, Bob Krapp, Ellsworth Snyder; Ann Haulman, Nancy Swanton, and Carolyn Nigh are amused at the amazement of their classmate Jack Murphy, who, having fallen asleep over his Latin book, is awakened by the spirit of a Roman citizen who has been permitted to return to Earth.

Ancient Roman Visits Latin Club

The Latin Club with more than one hundred members is one of the largest and most active clubs in the school. Its activities are varied and interesting. It aims to furnish both cultural background and pleasure for its members. Twice during the year the club has enjoyed slides dealing with different phases of Roman life and literature. Several interesting and amusing skits were given by members at various times. The scene pictured is from one of them.

In order not to neglect the social side of life, the Latin Club enjoyed a Valentine party, and finished the year's activities with a very successful picnic. The opportunities the club has given us for delving into the stories of the days of the early Romans has proved invaluable to the appreciation of our classroom work.

STUDY CLUBS . . .

Lois Frakes, Allen Lloyd, and Dick Miller re-enact the murder of King Duncan; and Rita Rae Jacobs, Barbara Angel, and Loralie Hagle portray the three witches in scenes from Shakespeare's tragedy, Macbeth.

English Club Studies Drama

The program of the English Club differs from that of other language clubs in that it is not necessary to build up background for the understanding of a people. Our familiarity with the language and the customs of our own land make it possible to plan programs that put greater emphasis on the literature of the English speaking people.

One of the purposes of the club is to foster an interest in great literature. This year our emphasis has been on drama, and we have heard dramatic readings at several of our programs. At other programs we have heard books reviewed, and we have been given many suggestions for our own reading.

The second purpose of the club is to promote fellowship among the students who have a common interest in reading. To this end we have parties on special occasions, such as Christmas and the closing of the semester.

Carmella Speirs, Ruth Frakes, (kneeling), Greer Allen, Jack Kinsler, Lucylinn Petty, and Bob Shackelford study the types of bird life to be found in the Springfield area during the winter season.

Biology Club Cheers Veterans

The main object of the Biology Club is to make the student more intimately aware of the world about him. Speakers who are brought in to address our meetings, references in our class study, and the use of motion picture films first make us aware of subjects that we study in greater detail on field trips. On many of these trips we learn the commercial use and value of natural products. This year in addition to nature study trips we visited floral shops, bakeries, and a soy bean processing plant.

Our second objective is to bring cheer through the use of plants and flowers. We have backed such projects as planting trees and shrubs on the front lawn of the school and planting the circular flower bed north of the front areaway. Our principal project is, and has been for several years, preparing small potted plants for the meal trays for the men at the Veterans' Hospital at Patterson Field.

Star and Atom Proves Science Popular

Star and Atom is a science club. Since 1943 it has been affiliated with The Science Club of America, a national organization of science clubs in American high schools. Any pupil enrolled in chemistry, physics, or biology is eligible for membership. There is not the opportunity for individual participation that many of the other clubs offer. Participation comes in the laboratory; but the stories of rockets, radio, atomic energy brought by scientists in the colleges and factories in our community give meaning to the work of the classroom and the laboratory. We learn that all the discoveries and inventions in the field of science have not yet been made, and that a young man or woman interested in the field of research may go out into a rich and rewarding career. We learn, too, as we have illustrated on this page, that the graduate with a background in science may look through the door of the classroom into a better adjustment in life because of his knowledge of biology, chemistry, or physics.

This group is taking a shorthand speed test. Georgia Giannakopoulos is reading; William West is timing. Sue Kelly, Joan Snyder, Rita Shanks, Barbara Walker, Norma Algeo, Jean Leary, Donna Whited, and Gertrude Yeutter are taking the test.

Commercial Club Teaches Efficiency

Membership in the Commercial Club is open both to vocational commercial students and to those who are including commercial subjects in a general academic course. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors are eligible. It is the purpose of the club to elevate the status of the Commercial department. We learn how we may advance our own interests, make the most of our opportunities, and establish ideals of accomplishment. We learn the advantage of broadening our general knowledge as well as the importance of keeping abreast of things pertaining to business practice. This year we saw a demonstration of the Thomas system of shorthand and a movie on stenotyping. A very interesting meeting was devoted to the subject of advertising, and a trip was made through the Crowell-Collier plant. The social side of club life is not neglected. We began the year with a get-acquainted party, celebrated Christmas together, and closed the year with a picnic.

Photography-Hobby or Profession

The Camera Club is for the people you know who, given a camera and a roll of film, will dash off to make a permanent record of the beauties of nature, under-exposed, or pictures of their friends squinting into the sun, or, as is too often the case, with their heads lopped off. Good photography is a matter of intelligent choice of subject plus knowledge of photographic angles and lights plus technical skill in developing and printing. These are the things that Camera Club tries to help its members acquire. The work of the members often appears in the Herald and particularly successful pictures are used in THE WILDCAT. This year members were greatly benefited by a trip through the Olan-Mills Studios. A field trip through Snyder Park and a "hunting" tour of the Wittenberg campus produced some very satisfactory pictures.

Radio Club Attracts Amateurs

If you have a lot of trouble with your radio but don't know the difference between a variable condenser and phenomena of frequencies . . . or if the radio bug has you, the Radio Club is the club for you to join. The activities of the club vary from sending and receiving Morse code to constructing small two tube receiving sets. The first part of the year was spent learning the Morse code with the aid of records. After the code was mastered, speed was the next aim, and so on into the theory of radio; for members of the club have been working hard to acquire the necessary information for obtaining a "ham" license. Since war restrictions have been lifted, we find that the fascination of radio has again produced its epidemic of amateur stations. It's a fascinating hobby, and Radio Club offers us an opportunity to learn its principles.

Art Members Exhibit in Show

The Art League draws its membership from the various art classes. The group meets once a month for extra study of artists and their work. Each year the Art League assumes responsibility for some project. This year they worked toward the development of school art exhibits. There were two showings, and the work submitted by members was hung in the library. The group also enjoyed a field trip to the Art department of Wittenberg College. Members submitted entries in the student division of the Springfield Art Association show in March. The judges chose a gratifying number to be hung and awarded second prize and honorable mention to two of the entries. This year the club has doubled its membership over last year, and with a growing interest in the art classes they look forward to an increased membership for next year.

Social Science Observe Anniversary

This year marked an important milestone in the annals of the Social Science Club. Having been organized in 1922, the club observed its silver anniversary this year. We look back with pride over the contributions made to the school during those twenty-five years. Probably our most spectacular contribution was the launching of the Forum clubs whose broadcasts have aroused such widespread community interest in the activities of the social science department. Membership is open only to juniors and seniors. Programs are built on the interpretation of good citizenship, on gaining knowledge of our civic institutions, and in having fun together while we learn. This year we visited the City Hospital and the Central Fire Engine House. Our social program included a Halloween party, a truth or consequence program, and a pantomime.

Until 1940 sophomores were included in the membership of the Social Science Club. Because of the size of the club the Sophomore History Forum was organized. From the beginning the club proved popular. In our program for this year the group has studied community organization, civic institutions, and the responsibility of the citizen in civic affairs. We chose to represent our club with a picture of the group ready to start out on a trip, because that is the way we worked out our program — with first a field trip and later a discussion of what we learned from the visit.

The boy, Eugene Hollis, working at his lathe in the classroom shop learns principles, techniques, and skills in order that he may become a first class workman, proud of his ability when he goes out to take his place in the work of the world.

The Industrial Trades Club

The boys both in the Industrial Trades and in the Industrial Arts classes are eligible for membership in the Industrial Club. The purpose of the club is entirely practical. Although the equipment in this department is unusual for an academic high school, we cannot equip fully for specialized problems that shop work may present. Members of the club have an opportunity under guidance and instruction to visit the factories of Springfield and become acquainted with processes that cannot be demonstrated in the school. The club had done, too, considerable work in visual education, following the showing of films by discussion of the problems presented.

Future Retailers Club of Ohio

The picture shows the cooperative sales class of Springfield High School studying modern trends in shoe styles and practicing salesmanship on each other. These girls study retail selling in class during the morning and then in the afternoon go to actual jobs downtown which tie in with the work at school. Each student works at least fifteen hours a week. The Future Retailers Club is the organization of these students. The club is state wide and offers more opportunity for the students to enter into social activities and to develop projects.

The group collected over $8,000 in tax stamps this year. They have sold merchandise at football and basketball games to earn the money to stage their annual Retail Merchants banquet, a gesture of appreciation of their employers. They earned the Sears-Roebuck award, which is to replace the standard classroom equipment. This award consists of a retailing unit of furniture that will tie in more closely with actual selling conditions.

Star and Chevron Know Service

Young people of today have boundless energy and active curiosities. In every high school in America students are asking teachers to be allowed to help out. But their interests have gone beyond the old "wash the board and clean the erasers" days. The more complex development of the modern school has presented interests in which many young people see a chance to try out something that may even lead to vocational choice. Recognizing the contribution her young people were making, SHS organized these voluntary workers in order to give credit to their service. The variety of their activity is almost unbelievable. They make streamers and posters, are hall monitors, library assistants, receptionists, office workers, and lunchroom assistants. They do Red Cross work, usher, deliver addresses, and tutor. Once a year in an impressive assembly they are awarded one chevron, two chevrons, or a gold pin, depending on the amount of service they give.

Philirenean-A Club That Does Things

Organized first as a peace club, the Philirenean Society, when the world was thrown into the turmoils of war, broadened its field of interest and became a cultural club. They have not, however, dropped their interest in the subject of peace and world government. Many speakers have addressed the group on these subjects and on the subject of cooperatives both in business and in labor. Culture is based on broad interests and Philirenean tries to present a broad scope in activity, as the placards held by the group pictured indicate. Musicians, singers, dancers, artists, athletes, and hobbyists of all kinds have been guest speakers of the club.

They present an annual scholarship to a worthy senior, and from time to time they make worthwhile gifts to the school. This year's gift was a shelf of books to the library, copies of books that are exceptionally popular and are constantly in demand. Philirenean is the largest club in the school and one of the most active.

Thirty-five members of the Twirling Club stand at attention. These are the future drum majors and major-ettes of SHS.

Delores Wolfe stands ready to make a strike as other members of the Bowling League anxiously watch the results.

Bowling League

The Bowling League is an organization composed of boys' and girls' teams. The League meets on Wednesday evenings at the Acme Alleys under the faculty sponsorship of Mr. Elwood Pitzer. Although the League is made up of both boys' and girls' teams, these are organized separately and do not compete with each other. President of the girls is Delores Wolfe, and of the boys, Ralph Lucas. Because all the members are keenly interested in bowling, the members of the League find these Wednesday evening meetings exhilarating experiences as well as healthful exercise.

Twirling Club

Fascinated by the strutting drum major that precedes the Gold and Blue band and by the sharp stepping lovelies who add glamor on the athletic field, more than thirty-five boys and girls practice twirling faithfully in the gym during the opening period. Of course, their great ambition is to achieve perfection great enough to become one of the chosen, but the job of learning is fascinating, too. The spring exhibition drill before one of the basketball games was reward enough for mornings of hard practice. The club is self-governing. Its three officers are Pearl Miller, president; Joyce Foster, secretary; Bill McCaughey, major.

Sophomore Friendship Club

Most sophomore girls look forward to every other Friday afternoon. Why? Because Friday is the day Sophomore Friendship meets. The club helps the new sophomore girls to become acquainted with their fellow students and introduces them to high school life. Pot luck suppers, picnics, dances go hand in hand with adult council on dress, charm, and careful grooming. Occasional meetings with the Junior-Senior club prepare us for next year when sophomores grow up into young ladies.

Jr.-Sr. Friendship Club

Having thoroughly bridged the gap between junior and senior high school through the activities of Sophomore Friendship, junior and senior girls are ready to settle down to the enjoyment of their new-found friends through the activities of Junior-Senior Friendship. There are still parties, dances, and picnics, but by this time we have learned that there is a broader service than helping a girl adjust to school life; she must learn to adjust to life itself, and to that end many of our programs are planned.

Mary Bray, Nannie Trimble, Lillian Caldwell, Georgia Price, Wilhelmena Allen, Loranell Thompson, Miss Frazier, Harriett Perry, and Jeanette Warren enjoy having Sally Beavers play for an afternoon songfest.

Center Street Hi-Y

The activities of the Center Street Hi-Y vary greatly, but they hold the interest of every member. During the club's last basketball season Herschel Rhea organized a Boosters Club which accompanied the team on trips. Once a month the group has meetings with the Clark Street Friendship at which time members of both clubs participate on the program. The Friendship-Hi-Y proms are held in December and June. Every day the Hi-Y is learning that the world needs good men, and Center St. Hi-Y is striving to develop some of these men.

Clark Street Friendship

With executive secretary Miss Frazier as their adviser the girls of the Clark Street Friendship Club have enjoyed an unusually active and successful year. In planning their activities they endeavored to provide a program to include all phases of religious, recreational, and social activities. They organized a teen-age social center called Canteen des Amis. The most recent project is the establishing of a coke bar which has proved to be the center of activity on Saturdays during the Canteen period.

The Sophomore Hi-Y is a small group of boys who meet every Tuesday night in the YMCA. The members strive to carry out the Hi-Y purpose and to build its program about those principals. Two of the year's most worthy projects were the contributions to the World Youth Fund and World Service. Highlighting the social program was the spring dance, The Hicks' Hop. During the weekly meetings we enjoy movies, speakers, trips to local places of interest, hikes, and all those games that boys call fun. Homecoming Queen . . .

Back in the old days the grads' game was the Thanksgiving game, but now SHS sets aside one game from its schedule to honor the alumni and crowns a queen to rule over the festivities. Candidates for queen are chosen by the Student Council. These girls are presented to the student body and the queen is elected by popular vote. Rachel Anderson, the 1946 queen, is a college prep student with a major in art. She has enrolled at Wittenberg College for next fall.

Social Clubs Offer Play and Relaxation

I am the victrola in the corner of the banquet room at the YMCA. At first I was alone and the walls were bare. But that's all changed now. The students of SHS and Catholic Central have made a clubroom of this place. Someone painted murals of couples dancing and of good things to eat all over the walls; and practically everybody has autographed the spaces in between. At 2:45 the gang begins strolling in. That's where the club gets its name. There is a fully equipped soda fountain and most of the pop bottles end up on my lid. But the young people are having a good time and I'm happy to work for them.

El Sombrero is a social organization made up of high school boys and girls who for some time had been using the facilities of the YMCA. With the redecoration of their club room in gay, Spanish style they named themselves El Sombrero for the little hats in the window drapes; but the name was soon shortened and hardly anyone ever says anything but El Som. Members dance, play ping pong, read, lounge, and do plenty of laughing, singing, and talking. El Som does not close all of its activities with the last day of school, but continues with a planned program during the summer.

Cage Ball

The Girls' Athletic Association through its program attempts to give any girl who wishes an opportunity to enjoy organized activity. Through such games as pictured, girls develop physical and mental alertness.

Basketball

Not only does the organization wish to stress the physical advantages of play, but here the girls may develop desirable qualities of leadership.

Volley Ball

By developing the necessary traits of cooperation, we produce in the present better citizens for Springfield High School, who will in the future be our better citizens for America.

Sports...

Win or Lose, We Back the Team

Led by Captain Kay Faulkner, Donna Jenkins, Phyllis Ulery, Mary Baier, Ronald Mezger, Iris Hess, Kenneth Miller, Jean Leary, Jane Leary, and Barbara Dennerlein direct the student body in cheers of encouragement for the team.

Yea Team! Fight! Fight! Fight!

Nothing raises the morale of a team as much as a cheering crowd. A crowd can yell alone, but it is direction that makes the difference between noise and an inspiring cheer of approval. At Springfield High games that direction comes from the eight girls and two boys who lead the cheering section for all competitive sports. Peppy, attractive in their white uniforms emblazoned with the Wildcat symbol, they inspire enthusiastic cheers for victory.

The SHS cheering section is something special, too. Realizing that without lacking school spirit, the student body can easily get too much divided at a game to be a very forceful unit, a group of boys a number of years ago organized a Boosters' Club. Members of this club pledge their attendance at all school activities, sit in a cheering section at all athletic events, and let the team and the public know where their hearts and their interests lie. A section of the club in action is pictured on the two preceding pages.

The sophomore football squad: Harkins, Elliott, R. Wagner, Bohn, Collins; Benson, Magill, Hernandez, Castillo, King, Crabbs, Jenkins, E. Wagner, Shepherd; Doolittle, Miller, Crable, Baird, Might, TenCate, Walls, Wadsworth, Thacker, Radcliffe, and Kipp, first-class material for future Wildcats.

Wildcats Finish with a Burst of Speed

Springfield High school's scrapping Wildcats ended their 1946 football season with a record of four games won and six games lost. Facing an extraordinarily tough schedule, an inexperienced Gold and Blue squad scored a total of 118 points against 168 points for their opponents. After losing the opener, winning the second, and losing five consecutive games, the Wildcats hit a winning streak and finished the season victorious in the last three games.

The season was marked by the consistently fine playing of Jack House, who won for himself the acclaim of his teammates by being chosen the most valuable player on the team, having chalked up his thirteenth touchdown for the season at the Marion-Harding game. Jack was also honored by being chosen a member of the North-South All-Star team and is to play in that competition sometime in August.

Again the prospects of the team for next year are weakened with the graduation of ten letter men, but there have been on the squad gaining practice during this last season sophomores and juniors in sufficient number to give the 1947 Wildcat squad a sporting chance for success.

Cagers Have Successful Season

The Springfield High varsity basketball team completed a successful season with a record of twelve victories and seven defeats. The unpredictable Wildcat five upset some of the strongest teams in the state such as Lima, Central, Hamilton, Columbus Central, and, twice, Portsmouth. One of the highlights of the 1946-'47 season was the Christmas cage carnival, inaugurated by Athletic Director Carl Schroder and won by Dayton Stivers. Springfield lost to Stivers the first night but defeated New Philadelphia in the consolation game the following evening. In the Class "A" tournament at Dayton, the Wildcats won their first contest from Dayton Kiser 41 - 29. The Springfielders were eliminated in their second encounter, losing to a strong Dayton Dunbar outfit. Dick Norman paced the Wildcats this year with 128 points, closely followed by Carl Parrill with 122.

The sophomore team, playing a schedule of tough county schools, enjoyed a fine season under the leadership of Coach Russ Paugh. They ended the year by defeating a junior high all-star team.

Reserve Team

The Wildcat reserve team, playing preliminary games, had a record of eleven wins and five losses. All of these boys will be fighting for varsity positions next year.

Lucas Pitches No-Hitter for Wildcats

The Springfield High baseball team finished its regular schedule by breaking even with three wins and three losses. Four other scheduled games were rained out. In the opener, with "Flip" Lucas on the mound, the Cats lost a close one to Dayton Fairmount, 3-2. The Springfield nine then defeated Dayton Stivers 2-0, behind the effective two-hit pitching of Lucas. Chuck Davis led the attack with two hits. In a return encounter the Wildcats again beat Stivers 3-2, with pitcher Bob Gueth limiting the Dayton team to six hits. Wayne Yoder and Len Harshaw paced the Cats, each collecting two hits, and Carl Parrill made a home run. Lucas then pitched the Cats to their third victory, a 1-0, two-hit shutout over a strong Columbus West team. At South Side Field, West handed Springfield a 4-1 reversal. Wayne Yoder and Bob Hawken garnered two hits apiece to pace the Springfielders. Dayton Kiser then beat the Wildcat nine, 5-1, Yoder being the only local to collect two hits off the Dayton hurler. In the class A tournament at Dayton, "Flip" Lucas pitched a sensational no-hitter against Troy, although Springfield lost their first contest, 1-0.

Golf Team Reappears After War

The golf team, participating in its first season since the war, lost all four of their regularly scheduled matches. The Wildcat golfers made a good showing despite the fact that they were up against some of the strongest competition in the state. The Springfield team was handed defeats by Troy twice, Piqua, and Dayton Fairview. In the Southwestern District golf tournament held at Snyder Park, the Wildcat team finished ninth. Dayton Chaminade captured the championship. All of the boys pictured above will be back to represent Springfield High next year.

Tennis Doubles Capture District Crown

The tennis team, under Coach Donovan Pearson, enjoyed a highly successful season. The Wildcat netmen opened their schedule with a victory over Troy. They were then handed defeats by Dayton Fairview, and by a strong Dayton Oakwood. In a match abbreviated by rain, Springfield tied Fairview, and ended the regular season losing to Dayton Stivers. The highlight of the year came when the Wildcat doubles team, Bill Van Riper and Dick Archer, captured the district crown by defeating the Olive Branch, Stivers, and Oakwood doubles outfits. Marvin Grieser, singles entrant, lost his first match to Pobst of Stivers.

Van Riper and Archer defeated the Cleveland Lakewood team in their first game in the state tournament, but lost to Cincinnati Walnut Hill in the semi-finals.

Wildcat Trackmen Preserve Record

When Coach G. L. Ronemus returned last year to his track duties, he had the enviable record of never having lost a dual, triangular, or quadrangular meet. Last season Springfield High's fine track team again preserved this record. They opened again with an easy 76-42 victory. The Wildcats then posted a 74-40 win over Columbus Central. The Springfield harriers next upset Columbus West, 44-20, and followed with an 82-38 triumph over Dayton Dunbar. The Wildcat cindermen then traveled to Delaware where they finished a close second to Toledo DeVilbiss in the Ohio Wesleyan relays. In the Newark relays the Cat trackmen were barely nosed out by Akron North as they ended in second place. Next week in the Miami relays the Cats again finished second to Toledo DeVilbiss. The Springfielders then turned in an impressive victory in a quadrangular meet with Columbus North, Newark and Osborn-Bath.

Another Wildcat track record that was preserved last season was the tenth consecutive winning of the Southwestern District Track and Field Meet held at Evans Stadium. The Springfield squad ran away with the honors as they captured the title. In the state meet at Columbus the Wildcats failed to score a point.

Ann Ritter and Joe Browning discuss a layout problem for the advertising section.

Springfield Merchants Advertise

When a student graduates and takes a permanent place in the economic life of a city, he puts into the city those things which he has learned during his twelve years apprenticeship in the classroom. The 1947 graduates have learned that the firms represented in the following section have faith and confidence in the members of the student body as the future consumers of Springfield. For this reason we took great pleasure in working out the following pages. Ann Ritter, Edna Svendsen, and Joe Browning, under the guidance of Mr. David Sawyer, worked out the ideas presented by the members of the yearbook class. With the help of the art classes they prepared the layouts for these ads. We hope that the reader who is influenced by these pages will mention THE WILCAT when he buys. To the advertisers in the 1947 WILDCAT and to the advertisers in this year's Mentor and Herald we wish to express our sincere appreciation. You help to make these publications possible.

A DIMEL SHOE FOR EVERY FOOT

From Cinderella to the "Old Woman who lived in a shoe" we have satisfied customers in Springfield ever since our establishment. In times of depressing scarcities Dimel's, too, found it difficult to fit you with the right shoe, in the desired style, at a decent price. But now, barring all old gray mares, Dimel's will do its best to prove that there is "A Dimel Shoe for Every Foot."

"If It's Borden's - - - It's Got to Be GOOD!"

Elsie, the BORDEN'S cow, is synonymous with health and happiness. A breakfast table set with plenty of good BORDEN'S milk and dairy products, gives youngsters a good supply of health-energy while mother and dad, you see, can simply feel great just watching the children relish delicious BORDEN'S milk. BORDEN'S ice cream, too, is a pleasant way to make a good evening meal outstanding. Have it on hand, also, when guests drop in. Something To Be Proud Of

See the proud look on Naomi's face? She's placing the cover of the 1947 WILDCAT among the hard-won trophies of our athletes. From this, we may judge that the annual is considered just as highly among the school accomplishments as the trophies. Please note the good-looking cover. Much time and deliberation is spent in designing these yearbook covers. Color and quality must also be carefully considered. Thanks to the DAVID J. MOLLOY Plant, we have the attractive, eye-catching book cover which has helped us so much in winning all-round recognition. The company works hard in making our yearbook cover the best! Their effort is what really counts!
